Song of the Road

Down but not out, 39 members of the Continental Singers and Orchestra were only five minutes late beginning their concert Tuesday night at Community United Methodist Church, although an hour before they were still stranded five miles west of Clewiston in 1927 where their bus had broken down. The Rev. Randall Parsons said some members of the group even had time to wolf down a few bites of the dinner prepared for them by women of the church between 7:30 p.m. when this picture was taken, and 7:35, when the concert began. Rev. Parsons said seven cars were dispatched to pick up the singers, their luggage and sound and light equipment. The singers said this was the first bus breakdown they've experienced in the 15,000 miles they've already traveled on their present tour.

Expanded Marina Proposed

Four members of the Belle Glade City Commission indicated unanimous approval of a proposed $1.5 million expansion of the city's marina facilities when the development was taken but said it didn't think it was too early to talk about it because the look at Port Mayaca, which would allow raising the lake level to 17.5 feet, is scheduled for completion by June 1977.

Malloy said the PCD has become keery of how it spends money on recreation because of some communities in the past which failed to use the land wisely for recreational purposes.

"But what I like," he said, "is that we have some experience and the wheel and you have the desire to have a good recreational program."

He said this desire has been demonstrated by the way the last improvements in the marina, including most of the camping sites now in use, was accomplished.

He said the party is prepared to go to court, "to let this year the views of all the voters of the state will have representation at the polls."

"This is a big step," he said. "This means we are going to have a say in all the counties and in all statewide elections. It means there is a new political voice in Florida."

He said he feels there will be adequate candidates available to the party, now it can be placed on statewide ballots, and he also feels a large number of people will work to get out the vote for American Party Candidates.

Grady said the party will not field a full slate of candidates but North Florida businessman J.P. Revels has announced he will run on the party ticket for governor.

Grady said Revels hails from Green Cove Springs near Jacksonville and has long been a public affairs in that area. He said Revels has served as a chairman in two presidential campaigns for Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Grady said Revels is expected to announce his running mate for the office of lieutenant governor within the coming week.

A jubilant John Grady announced Monday Belle Glade will have its own "favorite son" candidate in the U.S. Senate race when voters go to the polls in November.

Grady said that as of Monday morning, the American Party, which he will represent in the general election against winners of the Democratic and Republican primaries, had obtained more than 115,000 signatures on a petition to have the party placed on the ballot.

Although the party needed only 105,000 signatures on the petition to be placed on the ballot, Grady said the party would keep on gathering signatures right up to the deadline Tuesday afternoon.

He said Wednesday morning he still didn't have accurate figures in from all the county supervisors of elections but he anticipates a total of 150,000 signatures around the state.

"We're trying to build up as large a cushion as we can," Grady said, "because we know they're going to try to throw out as many as they can when they certify the signatures."

"We're prepared to challenge any county which shows discrimination against the signatures or the number of signatures."

He said the party is prepared to go to court, "to let this year the views of all the voters of the state will have representation at the polls."

knowing and he is opposed to sending in the public school system.

When the American Party went over the hump Monday by gathering the necessary number of signatures, it marked the end of a months-long effort.

Grady was asked in January to be the standard bearer of the American Party in Florida during a state convention held in St. Augustine.

State Party Executive Don Mathers lives in West Palm Beach and the party set up its headquarters there. Mathers and Grady began making the party a viable political force in the state.

The 105,000 signatures of registered voters represent the 5 per cent of registered voters throughout the state to put a third political party on the ballot and, since the petition is only required once, is a major step.

Once the signatures are gathered, they must be certified by each county as registered voters within supervisors of elections to certify the signatures in Sept. 10, the same day as the Belle Glade city election, but he isn't waiting on that date to begin his campaign.

"We're going to be cranking up our campaign right away," he said. "We feel that deadline is too late."

"Thought by many to be an impossible task," Grady said in reference to gathering the signatures, "American Party members and able-bodied citizens, irrespective of political affiliation, rose to the challenge contributing tens of thousands of man hours in the effort."

Oddly enough, Dr. Neal Justin of Boca Raton, a Democrat also seeking the seat being vacated by Sen. Edward Gurney, was among the first to sign Grady's petition.

At one point in the drive to get the petitions signed, Mathers and Grady said people were contacting American Party members on their own initiative to sign the documents.

This is the fifth, and most ambitious, political campaign Grady has entered in the past four years. He has also run, during that time, three times for the Belle Glade City Commission and once for the state senate.

Grady, a 43-year old family doctor, has travelled throughout the state, and into other states, denouncing big government bureaucracy waste, deficit spending and high taxation.

He has been elected to the Belle Glade City Commission five times since 1968 and has served as mayor for three terms, in 1969, 1971 and 1972.

Grady said he feels there will be adequate candidates available to the party, now it can be placed on statewide ballots, and he also feels a large number of people will work to get out the vote for American Party Candidates.

Little Sherri Phelps, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Phelps, and Mrs. Phelps, former residents of Belle Glade, said they and their two children, Sherrie and five-year-old Donna had never been to Walt Disney World. Phelps, who is a graduate of Belle Glade High, said the family plans to leave for Disney World Friday, Aug. 23 and spend the weekend. They will stay in the Royal Inn in Lake Buena Vista as The Herald's guests. Walt Disney World will provide them with free tickets both Saturday and Sunday. Connell's Standard Station in Belle Glade will provide the family with a tank of gas to get to Disney World.

Physicals Scheduled

Pre-school physical exams will be held for the variety Bolder football team at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Glades General Hospital according to Glades Central High School head football coach Al Werneke.

Werneke said the physicals are required for potential varsity football players and he requested all team members to check with the school before Tuesday to confirm their examinations.

He said full football practice for the city's official game under way Thursday, Aug. 15 at the Glades Central athletic field house.

The 1974 Raiders will get their first varsity competition Sept. 6 in a football game, the first of its kind ever held in Memorial Stadium.

The official varsity season will begin when the Eagles meet the Atlantic Eagles in Memorial Stadium on Sept. 20.

except the city hall annex would come under the purview of the public works director and the city commissioners decided to eliminate the position of utilities director, which is now being filled by W.E. Trammell.

The commissioners said until a public works director is hired, Malloy can expect to deal individually with supervisors of seven city operations plus Grady and Anderson.

The commissioners also served to name Johnny Rutledge as the city's full time supervisor of recreation. Rutledge has been holding down that job on a part time basis along with his duties as a police officer.

Commissioner William Greer said he had talked to Rutledge and Rutledge had agreed to resign from the police department and assume the full time duties, which include operation of the city marina.

The commissioners agreed that with an expanded marina, Rutledge would be a full time job for two careers, a justice and a laborer, who would be responsible to Rutledge.

Rutledge would be responsible for handling the city recreational program.

Roberts Enters Race

Jerry Roberts entered his first political race Wednesday when he became the fifth candidate to qualify for the two-at-large Belle Glade City Commission seats to be filled in the city election Sept. 10.

Roberts, filing to run in Group One, became the first competitor for incumbent W.R. "Ralph" Kirk, "I'm not a professional politician," he said, "just a professional human being."

He said he entered the race because he believes he can do the job and he is looking for support from all citizens of the city.

Topping Off The Summer

This floppy little blouse is the perfect topping for the summer of '74. Bonded under the bustline, padded in the back, and billowing with brief ball sleeves, it can spruce up jeans or slacks with a gently feminine appeal.

McCall's Carefree Pattern # 4028 can be as cool as it is pretty if you use printed 50% cotton and 50% polyester. And it can be as pretty as it is cool if you make it of basile or eyellet. The pattern is available in sizes 8 to 16 and could brighten up your summer like a refreshing gentle breeze.

-with Glenn Laney

The old philosophers, Charles Ward and myself, were sitting ruminating over a cup of coffee at the Old Dining Room Monday morning. At exactly 11:28 p.m. (the exact time is important) both of us decided Richard Nixon was preparing to resign. The time is important because by the time this article is read Nixon may already have resigned.

We just want to go record as having predicted it before it happens. Really, resignation is the only intelligent thing for Nixon to do at this time. His impeachment in the House and a guilty verdict from a trial in the Senate are almost foregone conclusions.

When this happens Nixon will be stripped of several amenities which go with being an ex-president. If he resigns the amenities will reportedly remain in tact.

Of course, I don't think he will go down without a couple of deals. One thing should be that Congress abandon the investigation where it now stands.

The final blow more than likely was the Supreme Court's demand that Nixon surrender 64 tapes he had previously clung to tenaciously. These apparently are very damning tapes, which, if they saw the light of day, would do more to harm Nixon than all the other evidence which has gone before. It is best for our country that Nixon now resign. Good old Gerald Ford can hold things together until the electorate gets another chance in '76 to elect another president.

Don't believe a word of it if George Gartner of Tom Norton Motor Co. comes up to you bragging he shot a 73 in the Elks Club tournament at Cypress Creek this past weekend.

That was only his net score under the Calloway system. They had to throw out five of George's worse holes to get him down to that level. Official scorers quit counting at 117 out of deference to George's position in the community. Rumor has it he was helped along by a couple 10-foot "gimmies" puts just to come in that low!

But it was all for a good cause. George, Leonard Case (president of the Elks and a better man than George), Ben Clarke (no Jack Nicklaus he) and Roy Carter (a pro?) went down to the tournament up near Boynton Beach to represent Belle Glade.

All the proceeds went to the Harry-Anne hospital building fund.

P.S.-Ben Clarke said he would have broken 120 if there had been a driving range in Belle Glade for him to practice on!

Washington Building Spree

WASHINGTON, D.C.

(LANS) If some members of Congress have their way, millions of tax dollars will be spent on more marble covered buildings... but not in your home town.

Here on Capitol Hill, Congress is spending hundreds of tax dollars to build ornate palaces for themselves. For example, take the Rayburn House Office Building. The construction of this edifice cost $120 million. Although Congress received heavy criticism for the costs, Speaker of the House Carl Albert (D-Okla.) is pressing to obtain funds for yet a fourth House Office Building. On Capitol Hill, at least, several dozen Federal and municipal building projects are under construction, or soon will be.

A July 10th Associated Press story stated: "The expansion of facilities for the House and Senate underscores the shift in power from state and local governments to Washington."

Capitol Hill newsmen Sam Smith describes the proliferation of Federal buildings in much the same way one would describe the growth of a cancer. He says untold numbers of existing small homes have been, or will be, engulfed as the arms of the Federal bureaucracy spread.

Smith asserts, "The size of new buildings is only matched by the egos of Congressmen." Modern politicians fail to realize, Smith maintains, that "little symbols keep Congressmen humble."

As part of the current construction craze in our Capital, the Dirksen Senate Office Building is to be renovated at a cost of $60 million. Dozens of small homes were razed to make room for the new Library of Congress building being constructed at a cost of $90 million. And, it appears the major portion of this sum may be lost... for 230 Congressmen now signed a petition favoring House acquisition of the building, designed specifically for use as a Library of Congress Annex. In retaliation, the Library of Congress may commandeer several more blocks of private dwellings to compensate for the potential loss of a new building, which will contain the ever expanding United States Tax Court is planned.

The bickering between Federal agencies goes on and on. The last end-of-the-ribbon sign win and the private Washington homeowning and businessmen lose. For example, $19 million in construction for a new building, which will contain the ever expanding United States Tax Court is planned.

Not to be overlooked is the proposed new Department of Labor building which will take $95 million in tax money, and the new HEW structure totaling $40 million. A grand total of more than one billion dollars.

Dreams, Nightmares, What's the Difference?

I've had a number of dreams but I never expected to make any loot off them.

Some people are optimists though. And there's one guy in Fort Worth, Tex. who could be making a bundle off a dream he'll be glad to tell you about for $20 a throw.

It's a policy of mine to refrain from writing about religion...anyone's religion, but when Miss Jessie Freeling brought in a letter last week from someone calling himself Bro Goodin, I felt it couldn't hurt anything to expose it to a little daylight.

Bro Goodin (I guess it's safe to assume Bro stands for Brother) wrote Miss Freeling about a dream he said he had about her home.

"Christian Friend," the good brother wrote, "I feel your home is in danger. The Lord spoke to me to write you about this dream."

Now, maybe I've had limited experience but although I've known a few pretty good men in my time, I've never had a letter from anyone claiming he has a personal pipeline to the Lord.

And when good 'ol Bro Goodin goes on to tell Miss Freeling how the Lord is leading him to have a special prayer meeting for her and her home and that she needs a touch from God in her body, as well as a financial blessing, the normal thing to do is feel right thankful he's doing something about it.

Then comes the kicker. "God has spoke to me to go away alone (funny thing God couldn't help Bro's spelling or grammar) and have a SPECIAL FAST AND PRAYER MEETING for your needs," he writes.

He then explains this special place is in a special foreign country and tells Miss Freeling to fill out a white card enclosed with the letter (it's yellow, Bro) and send it, along with $20 (presumably to help pay for the trip).

Now that little yellow card, he goes on to explain, has been prayed over by him personally and it's "SPIRIT FILLED" and good 'ol Bro is gonna take it with him to the foreign country.

I don't know about that country, and Bro doesn't say what he's gonna do with the $20 Miss Freeling is supposed to enclose, but seems to me I have heard over the past few years of some guys on Wall Street taking a few suitcases of paper to Brazil.

Rio should be nice this time of year.

Now, I wouldn't want to put the bad word on someone who's on a first-name basis with God but I decided if 'ol Bro has a dream about my home and writes the same letter to me (it's a printed form letter) he's gonna have to wait a while.

The way I look at it, if my prayers aren't quite loud enough to be heard by the Man Upstairs, I know a few preachers around Belle Glade who might be persuaded to be a somewhat cheaper go-between.

Some of 'em might even intercede for nothing.

One of his quotes bothered me too.

'Ol Bro quoted Jeremiah 23:28 as saying, "The prophet that hath a dream, let him tell a dream, and he that hath my word, let him speak my word faithful."

Wonder why he didn't start a little earlier and quote Jeremiah 23:25. If he'd started his quote there, it would've been something like this: "Listen to the dream I had from God last night," they say. And then they proceed to lie in my name.

"How long will this continue? If they are prophets, they are prophets of deceit, inventing everything they say."

That's verses 25 and 26, and 28 goes on to say, "Let these false prophets tell their dreams and let my true messengers faithfully proclaim my every word."

Comes across a little differently when it's taken in context, don't it?

Of course, you can get the same pitch any day of the week by turning on the radio and listening to "preachers" extolling the virtues of "prayer rugs," "holy oil" and other such claptrap but that doesn't change the situation.

Like I said, I don't believe in interfering in a man's religion. I don't claim to have the only answer...or even the only question but when someone like this preys on another person's fears and faith, or lack of it, I get it all the time.

I guess the worst part of it, so far as I'm concerned, is knowing the people who usually fall for this kind of gimmick are the people who can least afford it. That burns me up.

Nuff said.

Sometimes the knowledge of one or two languages other than English can come in handy. It's times like last Friday I wish I had that knowledge.

Went out to the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc., to give the Glades Sugar House its proper name, to cover a presentation of a plaque to the cooperative's management by the Cuban employees.

As I was getting ready to go, I thought about the possibility of taking along Ina Bueno, our pulchritudinous typewriter, to act as a translator but decided not to because I didn't want to distract the speakers.

As it turned out, it would have been a good idea anyway. I don't believe anything could have distracted Oscar Toledo once he got wound up.

I've heard some pretty good speakers in my time, and I even squeaked through a college level course in speech myself, but Senator Toledo is an orator in the grand style.

He had a speaking voice and a kind of gliding gesture with his arms and hands that reminded me of the backwoods preacher who, "starts out kind of slow, like a small earthquake, and when he lets go, half the valley shakes," as the song goes.

It was an experience listening to him, and from the applause he got from the Cubans surrounding him, he must have impressed them too.

Too bad I don't know what he said.

COMMISSIONER BILL GREAR CHECKS MAP prepared by FCD of proposed marina expansion.

City Okays $1.5 Million Marina Plan

Commissioner Bill Grear also asked Malloy about the possibility of the city taking over management of the two fish camps adjacent to the marina should they be taken over by the FCD. Malloy said he couldn't comment since the FCD is engaged in a lawsuit with both Slim's and J-Mark Fish Camps.

The commission could take no official action on the proposal because it was in a work session rather than a special or regular session but Malloy said the next obvious step, since the city is interested, is to assign a representative to meet with a FCD representative to work out more detailed plans. He said he would recommend to the FCD board of directors that Schiller be named to represent the district and suggested one of the commissioners represent the city.

A concrete application would then be worked up from the plans and this would go through a public hearing, probably within six weeks from the time the application is submitted.

Want to know where you can base a blimp in Florida? Where there are special facilities for seaplanes or helicopters? From which direction you approach the runway at Apalachicola, Pahokee or

The answers to these and many more questions are contained in the new Florida Airport Directory just released by the Aviation Bureau of the Florida Department of Transportation.

The 180-page booklet contains data on all of Florida's 240 airports, from the largest public use airport to the smallest private airstrip. Included is information on airports, emergency heliports, seaplane bases and even the state's lone blimp base at Watson Island in Miami's Biscayne Bay.

The directory contains flight data information on each airport giving the facility's elevation and location, distance and direction from a nearby VHF Omni Range, instrument landing capability, approach and tower frequencies plus the length, direction, surface and approach aids of runways.

Also listed are the aircraft and personal services available, ownership and management of the airport, the number of based aircraft and the volume of annual operations, along with other pertinent data.

The layout of each airport is depicted in a schematic drawing showing the runway lengths and directions, adjacent buildings, terminals, taxiways and obstacles such as trees, towers, power lines, ditches, levees, etc.

Airports are listed by both the prime city they serve and by the official airport name.

Also included are maps locating Florida's public airports and VOR's with charts for their frequencies and distances for use in drawing flight plans and enroute navigation.

Quick 'N' Easy Locker Room

Project Saves City $22,000

Belle Glade Police Officers will soon have a badly needed multipurpose locker-conference room...and the city will have a $22,000 savings it can use elsewhere.

The new addition to the city police headquarters has been built as a second floor, over the quarters now occupied by Police Chief Charles Goodlett and Deputy Chief Bill Mathis, largely by city force.

"We've used practically every department in the city," Goodlett said Tuesday. "at one stage or another. We've used city prisoners too but a lot of the work has been done by (city Fire Chief) Floyd Smith, the dogcatcher and myself."

Because the two chiefs designed the building and city forces did the work, Goodlett said the total cost would be in the neighborhood of $8,000 instead of the $30,000 estimated if the city had contracted the work out.

It is also $4,500 cheaper than the original cost Goodlett and Smith estimated to the commission in June.

The matter came up to begin with when Goodlett approached the commission during a work session in May and asked the commissioners for the additional area.

He said at that time the city's police officers didn't have a locker for each man. He said the officers needed the lockers, not only as a place to store clothing and personal belongings but evidence until cases come to court.

"Sometimes," he said, "a case will be delayed for three or four months and during all that time, the individual officer is responsible for holding onto the evidence."

Goodlett said this will be the first time in years each of the officers has had his own locker and he said a shower is also being installed for their convenience.

"A lot of times," he said, "the men will have to go out and get muddy or wet during their shifts and this will give them some place to change clothing before going home."

Other uses the room will be given is for conferences, meetings and training. Goodlett said each shift is briefed on what they can expect before beginning its tour of duty and this is where they'll probably congregate.

Goodlett, when he first asked for the new locker space, said one of the needs the police force is faced with at the present is another room or area for interrogations to be conducted. He said the only interrogation area is one room with a number of desks and said it has led to problems.

He cited an instance in which two families had been brought in by an officer to fill out forms on an automobile accident, followed shortly by an intoxicated man who was yelling obscenities.

He said it was embarrassing to the officers and himself and was a factor in lowering morale which he couldn't overemphasize.

The addition now being completed could help alleviate the situation if the old locker area is used for interrogations.

Goodlett said that, as fast as construction has gone on the addition, it could have gone faster but for delays in getting materials and because of heavy rains the last two months.

He said construction actually began June 12 and the holdup now is in waiting for new lockers to arrive.

Another factor Goodlett sees which should help raise morale is the platooning of the force, which began at midnight Monday.

For the first time, each sergeant on the force will have the same crew of men working under him at all times, completely through a 28-day cycle of shifts.

"This should improve our efficiency," Goodlett said, "because once a man gets used to working for the same sergeant, he knows what to expect and what the sergeant wants out of him in any situation."

He said the officers themselves had requested the changeover of the platoon system.

He said the shift schedule works out to an average of 40 hours a week (now required by law) for all the police officers, although the officer will work different numbers of days each of the four weeks during the four-week cycle.

When it comes to saving the city money, Belle Glade Police Chief Charles Goodlett believes in doing it himself, even when it comes to laying and stretching his own carpet, as he is doing above. One of the fringe benefits of the new addition to Police Headquarters is that the police officers will now have a chance to take a shower when they get off duty. Goodlett shows, below, right, where the shower door will go when it's completed, then he takes a smoke break, below.

Cancer Calls for Check

Mrs. Sue Teets and Mrs. Sandra Chamblee of the Belle Glade Junior Women's Club, accept a check from W.T. Grant Manager Carl Scott for funds donated by Grants employees to the Juniors' cancer drive. Scott said the donation was the result of a spontaneous effort by all the employees at Grants and he had agreed to match the total donation made by the employees. He stressed the donation came from the employees instead of the company, which he said donates on a state and national level from company headquarters. Mrs. Chamblee, the drive chairman, said the club has had immediate response to letters mailed last week and an article appearing in last week's Herald. "I'd like to think," Scott said, "this will be an encouragement to other companies to give. The Cancer Crusade is a worthy drive."

Charity Carnival Set

An old-fashioned backyard carnival, with a twist, will be staged at 2 p.m. Saturday by 11-year old Allan Felkins at his home at 1717 N.W. Ave. P.

The twist is that the proceeds from the carnival will go toward research and patient service programs of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

Allan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Felkins, and his 10-year old sister, Melinda, decided they would like to try putting on the carnival recently while watching the Skipper Chuck Show on television.

Skipper Chuck offers a "carnival kit" for the nationally sponsored Carnivals Against Muscular Dystrophy, a sponsorship shared by comedian actor Jerry Lewis.

The kit includes the materials for a number of games which will be featured, including bowling on the green, the bean bag toss, hit the clown, the pie toss, a marble shoot, a milk bottle drop and ring a duck, which involves tossing rubber rings about the necks of plastic ducks floating in water.

Mrs. Felkins said either Skipper Chuck or Scrubby, another personality on the children's show, would be present at the carnival.

Last year, in cooperation with Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, 28, 843 carnivals were held by children across the country; and more than $1,172, 661 was raised for MDAA's research and patient service programs.

First to File

South Bay City Clerk Virginia Walker (standing) points out some of the voluminous paperwork required to run for office to Mrs. Margie Henderson, the first, and as of Tuesday the only, candidate in the Sept. 3 city election.

Cuban-American relations were strengthened Friday when the Cuban employees of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. sugar mill presented a plaque of appreciation to management.

The plaque, adorned with the flags of the United States and Cuba at the top, was "in appreciation of the generosity and understanding shown to the Cuban People in the years since we have been absent from our homeland."

Mill Timekeeper Enrique Molina, one of the two Cuban employees who spoke at the presentation, cited the understanding and cooperation supervisory personnel have shown employees who came to Florida to escape the regime of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

After Molina's speech in English, mill foreman Oscar Toledo delivered an oration in Spanish, praising the "outstanding labor-management relationship which has prevailed since Glades Sugar House started operations in 1962."

Cooperative General Manager William Miller translated Toledo's speech into English for the benefit of President George Wedgworth and Board Member Fritz Stein, who received the plaque on behalf of the board of directors.

Wedgworth responded to Toledo's speech by quipping he, "is glad to have an ex-Cuban labor leader on my side but I didn't know you were such a talented orator."

Wedgworth said he had been asked many times about the management-labor relationships at the mill, particular in view of the large Latin contingent there.

He said he had said many times, "that what we have here would not have been possible if it were not for the many Cubans here."

He said the need to be careful what he says about Cuban-American relations was pointed out not long ago by a Cuban who has since become a naturalized citizen of the United States.

"I used to be a Cuban who spoke very poor English," he quoted the man as saying, "but now I'm an American who speaks excellent Spanish."

ACCEPTING A PLAQUE EXPRESSING THE APPRECIATION OF CUBAN EMPLOYEES FRIDAY. Glades Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida President George Wedgworth hears why from Toledo.

How would you like to enter a real-life frog eating contest?

I was thumbing through a newspaper the other day when I came across a story about a frog swallowing contest.

Seems like a major sport in Ireland is swallowing frogs—and of course, the only way to find out who is the champion of frog swallowers is to get a group of contestants together and see who can swallow a certain number of frogs in the least amount of time, which is just what the folks of Ballycumber did.

Under the watchful eyes of 5,000 Irishmen, ladies and whoever, John McNamara proved to be the leader as he gulped five live frogs in 65 seconds, following each one with a swallow of champagne.

Never found out how many competitors there were—though I have a hunch most of the others just stood there with half a frog wriggling outside of their mouth and staring at McNamara.

Two of the contestants had backed out at the last minute and another one was disqualified for chewing. He must have gone on an empty stomach for 24 hours and at the sight of frog legs, he couldn't take it anymore.

For all his gasps and gulps McNamara walked off with the grand prize—$24 and the title of All-Ireland Live Frog Swallowing Champion.

The World Series is only a couple of months away and the Pro baseball teams are battling it out for first place among the divisions.

As of this writing, the St. Louis Cardinals are only a game ahead of Philadelphia with Pittsburgh running a close third. Los Angeles and Cincinnati are battling for first place, but the Dodgers have a seven and a half game edge over the Cincinnati Reds.

At the moment Oakland has a good lead over the rest of the teams in the western division of the American League while over in the eastern division, Boston Cleveland and Baltimore are bunched in there together.

Now I never have claimed to have that much knowledge of the pro baseball teams—I may be able to name a half or two thirds (who knows, maybe all of them) of the teams, but when it comes to who has the most potential players or whatever, count me out.

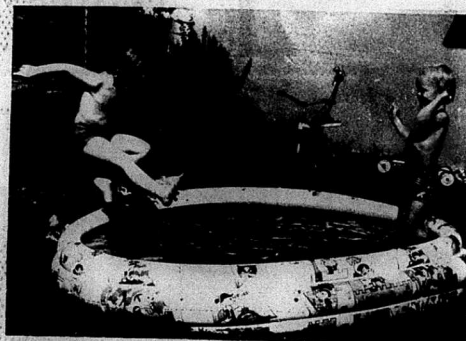

Baseball on television isn't all that interesting, what with three or four errors being a lot in a game (you ought to watch the men and women's softball games around here, that's considered near-excellent). Sometimes though it does get pretty exciting to watch a close game between two top-notch teams.

I'm going to take a wild guess though as to which two teams will play in the World Series. I pick the Oakland A's as one team, mainly because I admire the way they can get out on the field and win games as a team despite their controversies, both between the players and the owner, and also among the players.

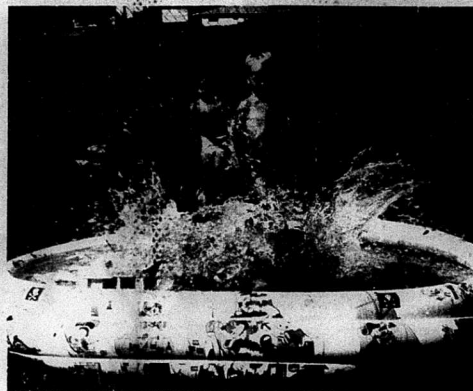

As to the other team, I shut my eyes tight and put my finger on Los Angeles. I'll go with them although I'd choose Cincinnati as the other team. It's just a feeling I have. Of course with my luck I'll be 100 per cent wrong.

One more word—these choices are subject to change at any time before the World Series.

Splish Splash I Was...

Summertime and the pool is cool! At least it beats just enduring the 92-in-the-shade-and-no-shade kind of heat we've been having, but where do those kids get all the energy for jumping in and out of their wading pool? You'd think they'd just sit, or lay, in the cool comfort of their plastic paradise and lower the ole body temperature a few degrees... unless, of course, it's time for the daily deluge. That lightning plays hob with a fella's play day.

Pearson and Yarborough Rank Favorites

David Pearson and Cale Yarborough, two-thirds of stock car racing's "Big Three," Chevrolet for the $147,000 rank as the favorites to win the pole position Thursday for Sunday's sixth annual Talladega 500 at Alabama International Motor Speedway.

Pearson will be in the wood brothers purveyor Mercury and Yarborough in the Junior Johnson-prepared carling Chevrolet for the $147,000 Winston Cup Classic.

The 38-year-old Pearson will be going for his first Talladega 500 win. The three-time grand national champion has won the past three Winston 500's at the 2.66-mile speedway. He won the pole for this year's Winston 500 with a speed of 186.086 miles per hour.

Five-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty, the other member of the so-called "Big Three," is another strong contender for the pole. Petty is set to pilot his familiar S-T-P Dodge.

Bobby Allison captured the pole for last year's Talladega 500 with a speed of 187.064 miles per hour in a Chevrolet. The Hueytown, Ala. veteran will be behind the wheel of the Roger Penske-Coca Cola Matador in Sunday's event.

A total of 50 will start the rich Winston cup event at 1 p.m. central daylight savings time. The Bama 200 Camel G-T sports car road race and the R.F. Goodrich 100 for stock Sedans precedes the 500 Saturday.

You know how high the cost of housing has gone.

For us, too.

The American dream house is more expensive than ever. Especially in Florida. In just the past year, the average price of a new home has gone up 15%. Yet, like they say, people have to live somewhere.

This is where FPL comes in. Because your housing needs determine our housing needs. To serve your increasing need for electricity, we have to house new substations and power plants. And the cost of our housing has gone up, too.

It's gone up against our will and our strenuous efforts to keep costs down. We have an Engineering Department whose primary function is to build new facilities at the lowest possible costs. We believe they have worked out the most efficient systems of any utility company in the country. Yet no system can absorb the inflated costs of today.

To bring electricity to your home, FPL must build substations, relay points between your home and the power plant. And the substations that cost us $468,470 in 1973 now cost close to $900,000.

An examination of just one of our costs will help tell you why. Reinforcement steel rose from $161.40 a ton in 1973 to $278.00 in 1974. Almost all of our costs have gone up. Fuel, equipment, vehicles maintenance and even the cost of borrowing the money to build the facilities.

FPL is trying to keep costs down. The economies we have devised work. The simple fact is that without them costs would have been a lot higher. We have blunted the edge of inflation. But there comes a point where to cut any further would seriously hinder our ability to serve you.

FPL cannot predict the future of the economy. We do not know if inflation will continue as it has in the past. We do know that we will continue to bring you the electricity you need. At the lowest possible cost.

FPL
People...serving people.

Will Enter College This Fall

Miss Carolyn Pelka, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berthold Pelka of South Bay, will be a member of the first class of Pensacola Christian College when it opens its doors this fall.

Miss Pelka is a June graduate of Christian Day School in Belle Glade. Her parents own Pelka's Restaurant in South Bay.

Pensacola Christian College will bring a new dimension to higher education in the Florida Panhandle according to the school's president, Dr. A.R. Horton.

The four-year college, enrolling only freshmen and sophomores this year and adding junior and senior classes during the next two years, is an outgrowth of the 20-year old Pensacola Christian Schools complex.

"High standards of Christian character and education will be our central theme," Dr. Horton said. He said the number of students at the complex has grown from 35 in 1954 to more than 3,000 today, making the school the largest of its type in the United States.

Horton said students from 22 states have applied for enrollment in the inaugural classes, which will offer degree programs in math, science, history, language, English music and speech.

He said degree programs will also be offered in Bible, accounting and business management and a one-year business certificate program will be available.

MISS CAROLYN PELKA among the first to enter.

Beacon To be Erected

A flashing beacon is scheduled to be erected in the near future on North Main Street at Northwest Avenue C according to an announcement this week by the state Department of Transportation.

The flashing beacon, which will show amber to Main Street traffic and red to Northwest Avenue C traffic, is being installed as a result of a request made by Christian Day School officials.

The school is located on Northwest Avenue C in the first block off North Main Street and Belle Glade City Manager William Mallory the school made the request through the city "about this time last year."

The approval for the beacon came from the department's May 23 meeting.

TOMORROW'S LEADERS

The bright young men who are the Boy Scouts of America today will, in all likelihood, be the leaders of our nation a few years in the future. These millions of boys study countless hours to earn badges of proficiency in activities that will be valuable to them for the remainder of their lives. Many important, however, is the character they build as a result of their constant striving to live up to the Scout Oath and like our Scouts conscientiously strive to live up to it. We would all, like our Scouts, SUPPORT AMERICA in the best possible way.

Scout Oath or Promise
On my honor I will do my best
To do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout Law.
To help other people at all times;
To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

The Scout Law
A Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

Vidas Ilustres

En semanas pasadas en el espacio de "Vidas Ilustres", comenzamos a publicar las biografías de hombres y mujeres que sus Vocaciones han quedado escritas en la historia como ejemplo de integridad, sacrificio y calidad. Nosotros en nuestra rica herencia latina tenemos también poemas y escritos que nos hablan de la sensibilidad de hombres y mujeres que con talentos grandes pueden poner en sus prosas y en sus poemas el sentir de una vida. Hombres y mujeres que pueden sentir. Hombres y mujeres que expresan sentimientos nuestros en formas bellas.

Traemos en esta ocasión tres tipos de estas expresiones poéticas. Traemos en este espacio tres joyas del arte hispano. Traemos tres nombres que por la American y Europa han proclamado sus sentimientos en versos. Es nuestro deseo que la lectura de estas tres selecciones, nos haga salirnos de nuestras luchas diarias y nos ayude a pensar en nuestros propios sentimientos y en nuestras propias almas. Es nuestro deseo que podamos recoger el humor del "Mal del Siglo", y que nos demos cuenta que de hecho en cualquier tiempo que haber buen humor en nuestras vidas.

El Día Que Me Quieras

El día que me quieras tendrá mas luz que junio la noche que me quieras será de plenilunio con notas de Beethoven vibrando en cada rayo sus infalibles cosas;

y habra juntas mas rosas que en todo el mes de mayo.

Las fuentes cristalianas iran por las laderas saltando cantarina

el día que me quieras

El día que me quieras, los sotos escondidos resonaran arpegios nunca jamas oidos Exaltas de tus ojos, todas las primaveras que hubo, habra en el mundo seran cuando me quieras.

Cogidas de la mano cual rubias hermanitas luciendo golas candidas, iran las margaritas por montes y praderas, delante de tus pasos el día que me quieras...

y si deshojas una, le dira inocente.

postre petalo blanco: Apasionadamente

Al reventar el alba del día que me quieras, tendran todos los treboles cuatro hojas agoreras

y en el estanque, nido de germen ignoto,

El Mal Del Siglo

El paciente:

"Doctor, un detaliento de la vida, que en lo intimo de mi se arraiga y nace el mal del siglo...el mismo mal de Werther de Rolla de Manfredo y de Leopardi. Un cansancio de todo, un absoluto desprecio por lo humano...un incesante renegar de lo vil de la existencia digno de mi maestro Schopenhauer; un malestar profundo que se aumenta con todas las torturas del analisis.

El medico:

"Eso es cuestion de regimen. Campe de mananita; duerma largo; banese: beba bien; coma bien, cuideese mucho. Lo que usted tiene es hambre! Jose A. Silva (colombiano)

Soneto Del Divino Amor

Amor es este que por ti me abraza; amor es este que hacia a ti me impelo; amor es este que de amor se duele en amado dolor que nunca pasa.

Amor es este que se da sin tasa, como nunca en la vida darte suelo; amor que estoy temiendo que se vuelte porque sin el la muerte fuera escasa.

Amor, y extrano amor, este amor mio silencioso y profundo como un rio, profundo, silencioso y caudaloso

Amor que nada pide y nada espera; a or que es como un lago sin ribera bajo un cielo plaidoso.

Lake Approval Sought

Approval is being sought by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to raise the elevation of Lake Okeechobee 18 inches according to an announcement made last week.

Gail G. Gren, chief of the operations division at the Corps district headquarters in Jacksonville, the Corps would like to raise the level from 14.0-15.5 feet above mean sea level to 15.5-16.0 feet above mean sea level.

"If the higher lake level is approved," Gren said, "it is intended to raise the lake to this new level during the fall of 1974.
